

THE DEIMOS ADVENTURE [4]

As you place the claw-shaped stone into a transporter box, you note that it is still slowly pulsating with a bright yellow light. J.L. Scott, the team's research director, has discovered a crimson object that emits tremendous heat. You will need to wear your protective suits in order to salvage the object. No crew member may win 2 tricks in a row.

No crew member may win 2 tricks in a row.

D1

In order not to destroy the glowing stone, you need to carefully construct a cryobubble around the area. Once the correct temperature has been reached, the stone must immediately be sealed into a heat-safe box. Both tasks require absolute precision! One crew member must not win any tricks and another crew member must only win 1 trick.

No trick

Just 1 trick

D2

Done! But there is barely time to catch your breath before T. Oliver, the newcomer to the research team, contacts you in a state of great excitement and asks you to make your way to him immediately. Lay out two tasks per crew member and distribute them according to the usual rules. Each crew member must win both their tasks with the same trick.

2 per player

Win both tasks in one trick

D3

